My experience

- It requires a bit of exploring and experimenting to get it just right
- You can write separate back-end and front-end applications in one repository